

論文英語 I (2単位)

担当者氏名 藤本 彰三

◆学習・教育目標

This advanced course in English is designed to guide students through the processes of research writing and research methods needed for successful academic work at the graduate level. Through methodical practice, students will develop their ability to produce clear and logical written arguments which are grammatically and structurally appropriate. The first semester focuses on a strict schedule of weekly assignments designed for maximum progress. The second semester offers both lecture-style classes and individual student-teacher conferences to assist each student with his/her own research project.
